I have noticed that in order to be a rea sonable creature it is necessary at time to be downright mad.

I have noticed that some men are so honest that necessity compels them to be dishonest in the end.

I have noticed that silks, broadcloths, and jewels are often bought with other people's money I have noticed that whatever is, is right with a few exceptions-the left eye, the left leg and the left side of a plum pud-

I have noticed that the prayer of a selffish man is "Forgive us our debts," while he makes everybody who owes him pay to the atmost farthing.

Among the many curious things done by the trained elephants in the London show is a scene where one elephant, dressed as a clown, walks into the ring and sits on a chair. Reaching out his trunk he picks up a dinner bell on the table in front of him and rings it for din-ner. A servant enters with a loaded tray and places a "square meal" upon the table. The clown elephant then helps himself gracefully to the various dishes, picks up a champagne bottle filled with water and empties it into his mouth. He then takes a napkin and wipes each side of his mouth. The servant removes the of his mouth. The servant removes the tray of dishes, and the elephant, picking up a palm-leaf fan with his trunk, leans back in the chair and leisurely fans himself. Professor Arstingstall, his trainer, proposed teaching him to snoke a pipe of tobacco, but Mr. Barnum remarked that his performers and army of employes his performers and army of employes were men of exemplary character, and his clown elephant should not be per-mitted to demoralize them by setting bad examples.—[Bridgeport Standard.
